Brief Description of the Activity:
In today's environment, where concerns related to climate change and sustainable development have become increasingly important, it has become ever more essential for students of today and leaders of tomorrow to understand the interlinkages between sustainability, business, and governance. Toward this effect, students of BBA Third year studying the course 'Business for Sustainable Development' were taken by course coordinator Dr. Swasti Pachauri to Amrit Udyan, Rashtrapati Bhavan in order to get a first hand exposure of green cities, green planning, importance of floriculture, diplomacy through flowers (the case of Tulips, National Flower of a G20 country, Netherlands), India's rich heritage through its green capital, and most importantly to experience a once in a lifetime opportunity to visit select premises of the Rashtrapati Bhavan. Not only through this visit did students revisit the Sustainable Development Goals that is an important part of their course, but also got a chance to interact with experts, naturalists, gardeners, and guides to get an understanding of the different varieties of plants, trees, flowers. Through their visit to the beautiful herbal garden, Bonsai gardens, the musical fountains and the central lawns, the students got a chance to observe nature in her full splendour while thinking and discussing questions of imminent importance – those related to sustainability. Through this task the students also got a chance to link concepts with green businesses, green entrepreneurship. The students were also given a checklist of topics related to G20 and its objectives on sustainability, the recent G20 meetings in Delhi, the history of Rashtrapati Bhavan, enabling green gifting etc as pre-visit reading exercise. The field visit is now going to be followed by an Essay Writing Exercise through which students will get a chance to express creatively what they learnt, and the lessons they can recommend for sustainable businesses of tomorrow. We are thankful to the tireless efforts of the staff, security personnel, gardeners, and guides at Amrit Udyan for making this visit a truly beautiful and a memorable experience.
