New Delhi: Delhi archives, in collaboration with Ambedkar University, will display documents, anecdotes and photograph Delhi's history on August 5 as part of Delhi government's oral history initiative to promote the capital's glorious past.

Deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia while announcing the event stated that, "The history of a place is incomplete without the lived experiences of its people. For a historic place like Delhi, documentation of oral histories will add an important layer to the city's incredible journey."
